LMT31407 Certificate 111 in Applied Fashion Design and Technology

Certificate III in Applied Fashion Design and Technology reflects a vocational outcome for those producing fashion products where a basic understanding of design skills is needed and where localised distribution not requiring specialised merchandising and supply chain skills is to be undertaken. Items to be produced may include a single or small range of products.

This qualification is particularly suitable for those who are self-employed undertaking low volume production of items for local distribution outlets for example markets.
